Educational Leadership

The Specialist in Education program in educational policy and leadership studies with an educational leadership subprogram requires 60 s.h. of graduate credit and is offered for educators who already have their master's degree and Iowa administrator license. Students must earn a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00 in major coursework.

The program prepares candidates to be superintendents in Iowa or to hold other district-level leadership positions in PK-12 school districts. It also prepares them for appointments as area education agency chief administrators and for jobs in state or federal departments of education.

Students can transfer up to 30 s.h. from a previously earned master's degree. Students must complete a minimum of 30 s.h. of coursework at UI after program admission, generally comprised of 20 s.h. of coursework and 10 s.h. of clinical work. At the conclusion of the program, students are required to present their first-year entry plan. Many educational leadership courses are offered synchronously via distance education; see MyUI for information about courses offered during current semesters. For detailed information, refer to EdS programs on the Educational Leadership website.

Students seeking superintendent endorsement must have an Iowa administrator license. They obtain the superintendent endorsement (State of Iowa Endorsement 171) upon completing the required EdS coursework and at least three years of administrative experience.

The EdS in educational policy and leadership studies with an educational leadership subprogram requires the following coursework.

Each activity must be identified with the corresponding National Educational Leadership Preparation (NELP) standard. A syllabus will be provided to guide the clinical activity.

Final Examination

The final exam is satisfied by taking EPLS:6405 Superintendent Entry Plan and Portfolio Development.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College and of the educational leadership program. Complete applications are reviewed as they are received.

Higher Education and Student Affairs

The Specialist in Education program in educational policy and leadership studies with a higher education and student affairs subprogram requires 60 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must earn a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00 in major coursework.

The program provides advanced graduate study in administration, policy studies, and specializations developed in consultation with an advisor. The EdS also may be awarded upon completion of a combined program of graduate work in higher education and another academic field, or upon completion of a higher education sequence following a master's degree program in a different field.

Required Courses

The EdS program of study must include the following.

Course #	Title	Hours
	Professional Education and Related Field Courses	18
	Electives (approved by advisor)	10
	Specialization Area Courses	28
EPLS:7395	Educational Specialist Research	4

Depending on the student's career goals, the program may include an appropriate structured and supervised internship, determined in consultation with the advisor.

Final Examination

A culminating experience is required of all students, the nature of which is contracted with the advisor. An oral examination of the culminating experience may be required.

Related Field

Students majoring in another field who want to complete a related field in higher education and student affairs should consult with a higher education and student affairs faculty member early in their study. Plans of study are developed individually.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.
