

African American Studies, Graduate Certificate

Admission

Doctor of Philosophy students are encouraged to apply for the certificate program in their first year of graduate study, and students earning their master's degree in their first semester. Students then have sufficient time to select coursework in an area of African American studies that is most appealing to them. Applicants must have a grade-point average of at least 2.75 at the time of application.

Applicants who have taken courses that may apply toward the certificate can review a list of acceptable coursework on the Graduate Certificate in African American Studies web page. They should note the courses that may apply toward the certificate on their certificate application in addition to a written justification, or they may meet with the African American studies director of graduate studies as soon as possible to begin the consideration process.

Admission to the certificate program is determined by application. Applications are reviewed by the African American Studies graduate steering committee twice each year. Applications should be received no later than Oct. 15 for spring entry; March 15 for summer or fall entry.

For more information on formal application to the certificate program, contact the African American Studies director of graduate studies or visit Graduate Programs on the African American Studies website.
