Undergraduate major: comparative literature (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: comparative literature
Faculty: https://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/people
Website: https://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/comparative-literature/ba-comparative-literature

Students in the comparative literature field study literatures, arts, and cultures from diverse national traditions in an interdisciplinary manner. Students design individualized programs of study that may draw upon texts, visual and performing arts, translation, film, and other cultural technologies. Students enjoy easy access to the resources of the Translation Workshop, International Writing Program, and the programs and departments in the Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures.

Comparative literature students also frequently extend their studies to other disciplines across the university, such as history, philosophy, linguistics, anthropology, music, art and art history, and law, among others. Students are encouraged to develop critical and creative thinking skills that effectively prepare them for professional studies in fields such as law, writing, publishing, journalism, the foreign service, international business, and many other fields. A degree in comparative literature also offers excellent preparation for graduate work in the humanities.

In addition to an undergraduate major and minor, the Comparative Literature Program offers courses approved for the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts areas of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences GE CLAS Core.

The Comparative Literature Program is administered by the Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures.

Facilities

The Language Media Center (LMC) is an essential resource unit for faculty and students in the Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures. The LMC provides a wide variety of facilities and services for traditional language laboratory work as well as for foreign language digital media production and computer-based activities. The LMC facilities include a 50-computer information technology center (ITC), two digital audio laboratories, a multimedia development studio, a One Button Studio for video production, 13 media viewing stations, and six small group collaboration spaces. The LMC also circulates a collection of over 3,000 foreign language, American Sign Language, and English as a Second Language digital media materials.

The Autonomous Language Learning Network (ALLNet), administered by the Language Media Center in the Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures, offers scholarship opportunities to learn critical and less commonly taught languages that are not currently taught at the University of Iowa. Any current university student, staff, or faculty member who is interested in pursuing language study to enhance their professional research or academic profile can apply for an ALLNet scholarship. With the support of the ALLNet staff, learners design their own study plans to learn basic language skills or improve upon existing skills in preparation for study or research abroad. Upon admission to the program, learners are provided with learning materials and tutorial sessions with a trained language and culture consultant.
