The Department of German provides education in the language, literature, and culture traditionally designated as German, as expressed in the language and cultural heritage of Germany, Austria, and Switzerland. Its faculty members conduct research and teach on topics in German language, literature, and culture from disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives.

Undergraduate students in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program with courses in German; see "Language for General Education" below. They may satisfy other General Education requirements with courses on German literature and culture that are taught in English; look for courses with the prefix GRMN in the area lists under "Culture, Society, and the Arts" in the General Education Program section of the Catalog. General Education courses on German literature and culture also are listed with departmental courses taught in English under the Courses section.

The Department of German is one of the academic units in the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.
