The Magid Center for Undergraduate Writing takes seriously its mission to offer all undergraduate students at the University of Iowa (regardless of major or area of study) the unique opportunity to enhance their academic, creative, and professional communication skills by focusing on the written word. In addition to sponsoring the Certificate in Writing, the center also publishes the student literary magazines Ink Lit Mag and earthwords, advises and coordinates the publication of Fools Magazine and Boundless, supports the Iowa Writers Living Learning Community (in association with University Housing and Dining), and is home to the Iowa Youth Writing Project (a nonprofit K-12 literacy outreach) and the Iowa Young Writers' Studio (a selective summer camp for aspiring high school writers).

The Magid Center for Undergraduate Writing was established in 2011 through a gift from Marilyn Y. Magid and family, in the name of the late Frank Magid, who believed that writing was a key component of a liberal arts and sciences education and a successful career.

Precollege Program
Iowa Young Writers' Studio
Website: https://iowas.clas.uiowa.edu/

The Iowa Young Writers' Studio is a residential creative writing program held in the summer for high school students at the University of Iowa housed in the Magid Center for Undergraduate Writing. The studio gives promising high school-age creative writers the opportunity to spend two weeks studying writing (primarily fiction, poetry, and creative nonfiction) at the University of Iowa, in the thriving literary community of Iowa City, with teachers and counselors from the Iowa Writers' Workshop and other renowned UI writing programs.

Students at the Iowa Young Writers' Studio share their writing with teachers and peers, receive constructive critique, participate in writing exercises and activities, and attend readings and literary events. The studio operates under the philosophy that the study of creative writing is essential not only to students who want to pursue writing as a career, but to any student hoping to function effectively in a writing-centric world. The studio encourages students to explore different genres and approaches, and to express themselves freely, without censorship. Students are taught to be generous, respectful critics.

Students who have completed grade 10, 11, or 12 are eligible to attend the summer program. The program occasionally considers ninth graders. Those interested submit an application, a creative writing sample, a statement of purpose, a high school transcript, and a letter of recommendation. Applications are taken online during the first week of February for the following summer.

The Iowa Young Writers' Studio also offers six-week online creative writing courses for high school students. These courses are offered in January-February and in late June-early August. The courses are asynchronous, so students can complete the assignments and participate in the discussions on their own schedules. The courses offer students the chance to study creative writing with graduates of the Iowa Writers' Workshop and other UI writing programs, and to connect with other high school-age writers around the country and the world. Students who complete the course and meet all the requirements will receive 1 s.h. of credit. Applicants must be enrolled in high school and have a g.p.a. of 3.50 or higher. Applicants must submit a writing sample, a statement of purpose, a teacher statement of support, a parental permission form, and a transcript. Applications are taken online in the fall (for January-February courses) and in the spring (for June-August courses).

Visit the Iowa Young Writers' Studio website for detailed information about the summer program and online courses.

College Program
Certificate in Writing

The undergraduate Certificate in Writing enables students in all majors to benefit from the University's wide-ranging writing programs and resources by pursuing a concentration in writing related to their majors, career goals, or personal interests.

Program for Adults
Iowa Summer Writing Festival
Website: https://iowasummerwritingfestival.org

The Iowa Summer Writing Festival is a noncredit creative writing program for adults. The festival brings some 1,300 writers to the University of Iowa campus each summer to participate in weeklong, two-week, and weekend workshops across the genres. Writers at all levels are welcome.

Participants choose from more than 140 workshops in novel writing, short fiction, gothic fiction, poetry, memoirs, essays, playwriting, screenwriting, travel writing, humor, writing for children, and more. Festival classes are conducted as workshops, where the primary texts are participants' own creative work.

Weeklong workshops meet for three hours each day, Monday through Friday, and include individual student/instructor conferences. Weeklong sessions feature a daily lecture series on aspects of literary craft, as well as evening readings and other events. Weekend sessions meet for eight hours over two days. Visit the Iowa Summer Writing Festival website for information about workshops, schedules, and registration. Program information for the coming summer is posted in mid-January.

The Magid Center for Undergraduate Writing is one of the academic units in the Division of Interdisciplinary Programs. The Certificate in Writing and the Iowa Young Writers’ Studio are administered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Learn more about the University’s wealth of writing resources by visiting The Writing University website, and read about the University’s central role in Iowa City’s designation as a UNESCO City of Literature.

Career Advancement

Recent Certificate in Writing graduates have gone on to work in various fields that are wide-ranging in scope and background. Graduates have found work as teachers, copywriters, editors and publishers, government administrators, freelance journalists, magazine writers, and more. Additionally, graduates often go on to pursue professional programs of study and advanced degrees in law and writing, among other fields. Finally, many recent graduates have found internships during and after their time in the program with publishing companies and magazines across the country.

The Pomerantz Career Center offers multiple resources to help students find internships and jobs.
