The University of Iowa School of Music is prominent in a fine arts community of international repute. It has long been recognized as one of the excellent university-based music schools in the United States.

The school's on-campus enrollment of approximately 450 music majors is large enough to sustain strong programs in all areas of specialization, yet small enough to ensure the individual attention essential to each student's development.

The faculty consists of highly trained artist-teachers in each specialization area and scholars of international distinction. Private lessons with faculty members are offered in all band and orchestra instruments, and in jazz studies, organ, piano, and voice.

The school's undergraduate programs offer all qualified students, whether music majors or nonmajors, the opportunity for further study of music. In addition to its comprehensive course offerings for majors, the school provides a substantial selection of courses especially recommended for nonmajors and several approved for the GE CLAS Core (see the following section, "Courses for Nonmajors").

Graduate programs in music are designed primarily to prepare students for teaching in secondary schools, colleges, and universities and for careers in performance and music therapy.

The School of Music is a charter member of the National Association of Schools of Music. The requirements for entrance and for graduation are in accordance with the association's published standards.

The School of Music participates in offering the Certificate in Digital Arts, the Certificate in Social Justice and the Performing Arts, and a Certificate in College Teaching (Music Theory Pedagogy option).

Courses for Nonmajors

The School of Music offers a wide range of courses that are appropriate for non-music majors. Courses about jazz, music and culture, music history, music software, and other topics are available as well as individual instruction on a number of instruments and voice; see School of Music Courses [p.] in this section of the catalog.

Several School of Music courses are approved for the GE CLAS Core; look for courses with the prefix MUS under Historical Perspectives; Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts; and Values and Society in the GE CLAS Core section of the catalog.

For course descriptions, see School of Music Courses in this section of the catalog.

Participation in School of Music ensembles is open to all University of Iowa students with the ensemble director's approval.
