

Master of Social Work, MSW

The Master of Social Work (MSW) program prepares social workers for advanced social work practice and leadership in a wide range of settings. All students develop skills to work with individuals, families, and communities and to advocate for social change. Students select one of two specializations, clinical practice and leadership practice. The clinical specialization teaches students knowledge and skills to work with children, adults, older adults, families, and small groups in clinical settings. The leadership specialization teaches students knowledge and skills for working with communities through relationship building, policy advocacy, and program and organizational development. Students develop competencies to advance the field of social work, create lasting change, and launch impactful careers helping others and improving lives.

The program has been continually accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) since 1951. See the CSWE Assessment of Learning Outcomes for the MSW program on the School of Social Work website.

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Master in Social Work Program Options

Options are available to complete the MSW full-time or part-time in Iowa City, Des Moines, and online, with applications reviewed annually. The Sioux City program is a three-year, part-time program to which students are admitted every three years. Applicants to any of the options, at any of the centers, complete the same application.

Regular Standing (54 s.h. Option)

Designed for individuals who have completed a degree in a discipline other than a CSWE-accredited social work degree program. Applicants apply for fall admission.

Advanced Standing (36 s.h. Option)

Designed for individuals who have completed the BA in social work or the BSW from a CSWE-accredited social work degree program. Applicants apply for summer admission.

Enduring Understandings

The MSW program was designed around five enduring understandings—concepts that are informed by the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics, have lasting value beyond the classroom, and apply to every aspect of social work practice.

- Advance social justice and fight discrimination and inequity.
- Adherence to a high standard of ethics.
- Using a systemic perspective to understand the interconnectedness of people and their environments and the systems in which we operate.
- Critical thinking, where problem-solving, creativity, and innovation are as important as learning facts.

- Self-awareness and effective use of self are crucial to effective relationships at all levels of practice.

Learning Outcomes

The curriculum is designed to address the following nine Council on Social Work Education competencies for both generalist and specialized practitioners, which serve as program learning outcomes:

- demonstrate ethical and professional behavior;
- advance human rights and social, racial, economic, and environmental justice;
- engage in anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion (ADEI) in practice;
- engage in practice-informed research and research-informed practice;
- engage in policy practice;
- engage with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities;
- assess individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities;
- intervene with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities; and
- evaluate practice with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities.

Professional Association

Students and graduates of the social work program are eligible for membership in the National Association of Social Workers (NASW), the largest membership organization of professional social workers in the world with 132,000 members. NASW works to enhance the professional growth and development of its members, to create and maintain professional standards, and to advance sound social policies. The NASW Code of Ethics is intended to serve as a guide to the everyday professional conduct of social workers.

Requirements

The Master of Social Work requires 36 s.h. for advanced standing students—those who hold an undergraduate degree in social work from a program accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE)—or 54 s.h. for students who earned a bachelor's degree in a major other than a CSWE-accredited social work program. Students must maintain a graduate grade-point average of at least 3.00 and they must be in compliance with the school's student advancement policy. The degree is offered with or without a thesis.

Credit from previous graduate coursework toward the MSW may be applied if specific criteria are met, but students must earn a minimum of 36 s.h. after admission to the MSW program and agree to meet all requirements of the program.

All students complete one of two specializations (23 s.h.) and 9 s.h. in elective courses.

MSW Learning Centers

Full-time and part-time study are available in Iowa City, Des Moines, and online. Students follow a sequenced plan for their program option which may include electives in the summer. Advanced standing students in Iowa City and Des Moines begin their coursework in the summer and may complete the program over one year (three semesters) or two years, following the sequenced plan. The online advanced standing program can be completed in two years.

The School of Social Work delivers the MSW curriculum in person in Iowa City and in two learning centers in Des Moines and Sioux City, Iowa, and as an online program.

Each learning center is administered by the School of Social Work in cooperation with Distance and Online Education. Social work faculty members teach required courses at each center and are available for student advising. The off-campus programs have been evaluated by the Council on Social Work Education and the University of Iowa Graduate College as providing a program comparable to that available on the Iowa City campus.

Courses at each off-campus site are taught in classrooms by tenure-track, clinical, lecturers, visiting, and adjunct faculty members. Instructional connections between sites are maintained through varied technologies, including computer-based instruction.

Des Moines

The MSW program in Des Moines, in central Iowa, offers courses sequenced to accommodate both part-time and full-time study. Students complete most of their required courses in person at the Des Moines center and most of their electives online. Classes are held at the John and Mary Pappajohn Education Center.

Sioux City

The Sioux City part-time program is offered in classroom space at Briar Cliff University in Sioux City, Iowa, with additional online asynchronous components.

Online

Students in this program attend evening classes in real time using video conferencing, and asynchronous classes in which coursework is done independently, adhering to deadlines.

Graduate Education

Graduate education prepares students with advanced knowledge and skills in specialized fields. At the University of Iowa, the Graduate College advocates for student-centered graduate education and supports equitable application of rules and policies across graduate programs.

Academics

University of Iowa graduate credentials are regulated by policies and requirements found in the Graduate College Manual of Rules and Regulations. This includes minimum grade-point average (GPA) requirements for academic standing and degree conferral. The Graduate College sets the minimum requirement. Individual graduate programs may establish higher GPA requirements.

Admissions

Graduate student applicants must meet admission requirements for both the Graduate College and the program to which they have applied. University of Iowa graduate admission requirements are published by the Graduate College and on the Graduate Admissions website.

Financial Support

Graduate students might be eligible for financial support. Several contingencies apply, including degree program and award type, satisfactory progress toward degree, satisfactory completion of all duties related to an appointment, and availability of funding. Graduate students should inquire directly with their program for more information about funding availability. The Graduate Student Employment Standards govern the employment relationship between the University of Iowa and all graduate teaching and research assistants in all matters except wages, which are covered by an existing collective bargaining agreement or the conditions of an applicable federal grant.

Combined Programs

Social Work Degree Programs

MSW/PhD in Social Work

The school offers a Master of Social Work/Doctor of Philosophy program in social work for students who have completed coursework in research and statistics and have postbaccalaureate experience related to social work practice. The program permits students to apply a limited amount of credit toward both graduate degrees, reducing the time required to graduate. Individuals must apply to the MSW program and the PhD program; applications are reviewed by the admission panels of both programs. For more information, contact the School of Social Work.

Degree Programs With Other Colleges

The School of Social Work collaborates with other colleges to offer combined degree programs. Each program permits students to apply up to 12 s.h. of graduate credit toward both degrees, reducing the time required to graduate.

Applicants must apply to each program separately and be admitted to each one before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. Information about the combined programs is available from the School of Social Work's program and admissions manager.

MSW/MBA

The School of Social Work and the Tippie College of Business offer the combined Master of Social Work/Master of Business Administration programs. For more information, see the MBA (Tippie College of Business) in the catalog.

Career Advancement

Professional social workers are found in every facet of community life—in schools, health settings (such as hospitals, hospice, skilled care facilities, substance abuse treatment, mental health clinics), senior centers, elected office, private practices, prisons, military, corporations, and in numerous public and private agencies that serve individuals and families in need. Many also serve as social and community service directors.

According to the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), professional social workers are the nation's largest group of mental health services providers. There are more clinically trained social workers—over 200,000—than psychiatrists, psychologists, and psychiatric nurses combined. Federal law and the National Institutes of Health recognize social work as one of five core mental health professions.

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs employs more than 10,000 professional social workers. It is one of the largest employers of MSW individuals in the United States. More than 40% of all disaster mental health volunteers trained by the American Red Cross are professional social workers. There are hundreds of social workers in national, state, and local elected offices.

Projected growth in social work jobs is estimated to be greater than average for all occupations (Bureau of Labor Statistics).

Today, almost 50 special interest organizations contribute to the vitality and influence of the social work profession. There are social work groups for educators and researchers, as well as organizations for practitioners in health care leadership, nephrology, oncology, child welfare, schools, prisons, courts, and many other settings.
