

Medical Laboratory Science, BS

The Carver College of Medicine partners with various programs to offer the Bachelor of Science in medical laboratory science. The Kirkwood medical laboratory science program is currently seeking accreditation by the National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Sciences. The Mercy program is fully accredited by the National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Sciences.

Undergraduate study in medical laboratory science is guided by the academic rules and procedures outlined in the Carver College of Medicine section of the catalog.

The Carver College of Medicine partners with affiliated institutions that provide the medical laboratory science professional training programs; students in this major are not held to the University of Iowa in-residence requirement.

Expenses

Students are responsible for all tuition, textbooks, and other associated expenses during their time in one of the affiliated programs. Tuition is assessed by the affiliated learning institution or program.