Radiation Oncology Courses (RADO)

RADO Courses

This is a list of courses with the subject code RADO. For more information, see Radiation Oncology (Carver College of Medicine) in the catalog.

RADO:8401 Radiation Oncology for Medical Students

Integration of clinical oncology, physics, and cancer biology; clinical work with faculty mentors; experience in clinical evaluation, technical physics, biological application.

RADO:8491 Introduction to Radiation Oncology

Role of radiation therapy in the management of cancer patients; exposure to a variety of radiation oncology topics including basic principles of radiation oncology, radiation physics, radiation/cancer biology, oncologic work-up and management, and radiation treatment planning; for advanced medical students with an interest in radiation oncology or oncology related specialties.

RADO:8497 Research in Radiation Oncology

Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

RADO:8498 Radiation Oncology On Campus

Arranged by student with department approval.

RADO:8499 Radiation Oncology Off Campus

Arranged by student with department approval.