Teaching and Learning, Ph.D.

Learning Outcomes

Students will:

• demonstrate understanding and application of research methods and methodological knowledge;
• demonstrate understanding of and ability to analyze theoretical concepts and research in their field of study;
• express ideas effectively in written and spoken communication;
• connect research to practice and practical questions in education; and
• plan, conduct, report on, and disseminate original research.