

Library and Information Science, MA

Career Advancement

School of Library and Information Science graduates have numerous options for employment. Alumni hold positions in public, school, special, and academic libraries as well as other information settings (e.g. corporations, non-profits, civic). They serve in varied roles, such as data analyst, information consultant, database manager, library administrator, webmaster, network coordinator, cataloger, children's librarian, school library media specialist, and archivist.

The school shares announcements of national and international job opportunities through an electronic mailing list. It prioritizes the development of internships and other opportunities, providing students with hands-on experiences that enhance their job prospects. All SLIS graduates walk away from the program with a robust portfolio highlighting professional competencies, skills and areas of expertise.