

English, MA

The Master of Arts program in English introduces students to the professional study of literature.

The MA is appropriate for students who would like graduate training in English and who may have an undergraduate major in a different field or who may intend to earn a PhD at another institution. Students interested in careers in any area of book studies (professional writing, editing, web design, or publishing) may wish to earn the MA as a terminal degree, as may teachers seeking to enhance their credentials or students pursuing intellectual growth unrelated to a specific career.

MA and PhD students in English mix freely in graduate courses, share the same access to faculty, and meet the same standards of quality in their work.

Exam for the Master of Arts in Teaching

The department administers the English component of the exam for the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) in coordination with the College of Education. MAT students should contact the Department of Teaching and Learning (College of Education) for information.

Learning Outcomes

- Writing skills: proficiency in writing means publishable-quality writing (e.g., what one would expect from an article placed in a scholarly or creative journal).
- Historical knowledge: comprehensive historical knowledge of literary history, reflected in courses taken across a range of literary periods and national/international traditions.
- Critical theory and approaches: rigorous study of critical methodologies and interpretive strategies.
- Research skills: familiarity with library research into secondary scholarship on primary texts, archival research methods, and field research, where applicable.
- Teaching skills: ideally, students will move from foundations-based grading positions under the supervision of tenure track faculty (introduction to the major) to rhetoric/composition coursework (rhetoric), and then on to literary analysis-focused courses (general education literature). Students learn to build their own syllabi, develop a teaching portfolio, and manage their own courses independently.
- Professional development: this includes conference presentations, curriculum vitae and résumé building, and teaching statements, along with exposure to career tracks, both academic (e.g., tenure track jobs, liberal arts colleges, community colleges, etc.) and alternative professions (e.g., digital humanities, humanities organizations, publishing, etc.).

Requirements

The Master of Arts program in English requires a minimum of 31–60 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is offered with two options: the literary studies subprogram [p. 1] (31 s.h.) and without a subprogram [p. 3] (60 s.h.). The subprogram in literary studies is designed for students pursuing the MA as a standalone program or for U2G students. The MA in English without a subprogram only applies to students admitted to the English PhD program; there is no direct admission to this subprogram.

The MA in English requires the following coursework.

Literary Studies Subprogram

The Master of Arts in English with a subprogram in literary studies requires a minimum of 31 s.h. of graduate credit. Students may receive credit for up to 6 s.h. of transfer courses toward the MA. They must maintain a graduate college program grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.00. Applicable transfer courses must be approved by the director of graduate studies.

Electives

Students complete an additional 12 s.h. of English courses (prefix ENGL) numbered 5000–7899, excluding ENGL:5990 MA Portfolio in Literary Studies, ENGL:5999 MA Thesis in Literary Studies, ENGL:6950 Colloquium: Teaching Foundations of the English Major, and ENGL:6960 Colloquium: Teaching Literature. Elective courses must be taken on an A-F graded basis. With the permission of the program, students may select elective courses outside of the Department of English. Students may wish to explore opportunities for interdisciplinary study, language study, experience in theory and practice of writing, or specialization in a field of literary scholarship.

Department of English graduate courses are repeatable with the written approval of the department's director of graduate studies.

Capstone

Completion of the MA in English with a literary studies subprogram requires either a thesis or a portfolio. Students submit a written description of their choice to the director of the program before the semester in which they plan to graduate.

Course #	Title	Hours
One of these:
ENGL:5990	MA Portfolio in Literary Studies	1
ENGL:5999	MA Thesis in Literary Studies	1

MA Thesis

The thesis entails a 25- to 35-page essay of literary criticism consonant in form and content with the variety of articles published in journals and periodicals. The essay may not be submission-ready; rather, it must be a body of writing that looks toward possible publication. If the essay originated in a course taken during the program, it should be substantially revised per input from the thesis director and possibly the original course instructor.

The thesis may also assume a form that diverges from a traditional literary critical article. Alternate thesis projects must be approved by the director of graduate studies.

Students who choose to write a thesis must submit a brief prospectus approved by their thesis director before they register for ENGL:5999 MA Thesis in Literary Studies and at least one semester before they submit the thesis. See Academic Plans [p. 4] in this section of the catalog for detailed timelines for the submission and defense process. The thesis committee consists of the thesis director, the director of the MA program, and one other faculty member. The thesis is evaluated by the committee as either satisfactory (S) or unsatisfactory (U).

A copy of the thesis must be presented to the Graduate College for approval. For information about Graduate College deadlines and policies, see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

MA Portfolio

Near the end of their coursework, students who do not choose the thesis option must submit a portfolio of work to the MA examination committee, which consists of the director of the MA program and two other English faculty members. All three read the full portfolio. To pass, the candidate must have a majority vote of the committee members.

Students take the first step toward preparing to submit a portfolio by meeting with the director of the MA program to discuss the portfolio, early during the semester in which they plan to graduate. After fulfilling all distribution and eligibility requirements and clearing all incomplete grades, students present the director with a draft of the portfolio's introductory statement. Students planning to graduate at the end of the fall semester should present the statement by the first week of October; those who plan to graduate at the end of the spring semester should present the statement by the first week of March. Once the director approves the statement, the student must submit three copies of the full portfolio; the submission deadline is Nov. 1 for students planning to graduate at the end of the fall semester and April 1 for those who will graduate at the end of the spring semester.

The work in the portfolio should demonstrate the student's knowledge of literature as a broad historical and theoretical inquiry. Students submit approximately 50 pages (12,500 words) of their best work, along with a self-reflective introductory statement of five to seven pages. The body of the portfolio should contain revised versions of papers originally produced for classes. The introduction should detail the student's trajectory in the program and the literary-critical or methodological skills gained. It should also explain the contents of the portfolio, contextualize each paper, and give a brief overview of the writing. Students are expected to describe the research methods used in assembling their portfolios and the critical practices that ground their work.

MA Without Subprogram

The Master of Arts in English without a subprogram requires a minimum of 60 s.h. of graduate credit. Students may receive credit for up to 18 s.h. of transfer courses toward the degree. They must maintain a graduate college program GPA of at least 3.00.

There is no direct admission to this subprogram; it is only open to students accepted into the English PhD program.

Each student must satisfy a portion of the course requirements of the PhD program. For the MA, the students must have completed the coursework that would normally be expected by that point in the program.

Historical Distribution

Students complete one course from each of the three historical areas for 9 s.h. total. See the preceding list titled Seminars and Readings: Historical Distribution Courses [p. 1] for available courses. A grade of B-plus or above is required for each course.

Upper-Level English Courses

Students complete an additional 18 s.h. of English courses (prefix ENGL) numbered 5000-7899, excluding ENGL:5990 MA Portfolio in Literary Studies, ENGL:5999 MA Thesis in Literary Studies, ENGL:6950 Colloquium: Teaching Foundations of the English Major, and ENGL:6960 Colloquium: Teaching Literature. These courses must be taken on an A-F graded basis.

Seminars

Of the 18 s.h. in upper-level courses and 9 s.h. in historical distribution courses, 9 s.h. must come from seminars. A grade of B-plus or above is required for each seminar.

Admission

Applications and all supporting documents for graduate admission must be submitted electronically by Dec. 14. Applicants should submit their applications and supporting materials to the University of Iowa Admissions website.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Career Advancement

The Master of Arts in English degree helps prepare students for careers in professional writing, editing, web design, and publishing. It is also desirable for teachers seeking to enhance their credentials.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.
