

International Studies, BA

Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in international studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 43 s.h. of work for the major. Students must complete at least 15 s.h. of work for the major at the University of Iowa. They must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. Students must also complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences GE CLAS Core.

The international studies major is flexible, combining core international studies coursework with courses drawn from across the humanities, social sciences, and the arts. Students work closely with an academic advisor to plan their program of study.

Students are encouraged to study or intern abroad and should work with their academic advisor to determine how credits earned from approved study abroad programs or international internships can fulfill the global perspectives, world cultures and societies, and/or language requirements for the major.

To benefit from the interdisciplinary nature of international studies, students choose from a wide range of courses. To ensure that students take courses from varied disciplines, students may count a maximum of 12 s.h. from a single course subject toward the global perspectives [p. 1] and the world cultures and societies [p. 5] requirements (with the exception of international studies courses, prefix IS).

Transfer credit approved by the International Studies Program may be applied to the major.

Students have the option to complete a 15 s.h. concentration. They choose global perspectives courses and world cultures and societies courses approved in one of the three concentrations: global business and communication [p. 9], international human rights and public service [p. 9], or international sustainable development [p. 10].

The BA with a major in international studies requires the following coursework.

Requirements	Hours
Foundation Courses	10
Language Requirement	6
Capstone Course	3
Global Perspectives Courses	12
World Cultures and Societies Courses	12
Optional Concentrations

Foundation Courses

Students learn the core, multidisciplinary intellectual and interpersonal international studies skill set, and its applications for travel, employment, and understanding global issues.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
IS:2000	Introduction to International Studies	3

IS:2009	World Travel: Cross-Cultural Skills for International Business, Education, and Service	3
IS:2020	World Events Today!	3
One of these:
IS:1000	Designing Your International Studies Major	1
IS:2500	Working Internationally	1

Language Requirement

By fulfilling the language requirement, students gain the language competence needed for work and life in the increasingly globalized world.

Students must complete a minimum of two world language courses beyond those required by the GE CLAS Core. If students have not completed the fourth level of a single language in fulfilling the GE CLAS Core requirement, then they must complete the fourth level of a single world language to fulfill the international studies major language requirement.

If a student completes the fourth level of a single language prior to completing the international studies major language requirement, this requirement can be met by completing additional courses in the same language or two courses in a second world language at any level. A single course in a second language may not be used alone. A maximum of one 3 s.h. course from the GE CLAS Core World Language and Cultural Exploration course list may also be used toward the major requirement.

In satisfying this requirement, many students are eligible to receive an additional 4 s.h. of ungraded credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP). This credit may be applied to the minimum 120 s.h. required for graduation, but it does not count toward requirements for the international studies major.

Capstone Course

Students apply their knowledge in internationally focused experiences. They typically complete the capstone course in their third or fourth year.

Optional Concentrations

Students have the option to complete a 15 s.h. concentration. This may be done by choosing global perspectives courses and world cultures and societies courses that are approved in one of the three concentrations: global business and communication [p. 9], international human rights and public service [p. 9], or international sustainable development [p. 10].

Global Business and Communication

This concentration enables students to understand the complex forces that shape global commerce on the macro and micro levels. Students use multidisciplinary perspectives to understand the economic and cultural impacts of globalization processes, including on globalized systems and cultures of business, communication, and media. It offers social scientific and humanistic approaches to global business and communication. This background enables students who earn the concentration to stand out among entry-level business applicants; students develop the knowledge and skills needed for engaging in ethical and effective intercultural communication and action in the global business world, which are valued by multinational corporations and businesses worldwide.

International Human Rights and Public Service

This concentration is designed to provide a combination of philosophical and practical knowledge related to social justice and human rights. The study of human rights is inherently multidisciplinary, and students have the opportunity to become familiar with international human rights standards, their application, and implications through coursework in a variety of disciplines. Students are expected to understand how to discuss and address human rights concerns from a number of distinct perspectives and to apply critical thinking skills to complex problems. Students also develop an understanding of the ways that cultural and political-economic systems reflect specific place-based contexts as well as complex world histories of colonization, resistance, migration, and globalization. They gain knowledge and skills that are directly applicable to public service careers in government and nongovernmental organizations, in the United States and abroad, as well as graduate programs of study such as law and public policy.

International Sustainable Development

Students learn about the multiple dimensions of social change and human development in areas of the world categorized as developing societies, including poverty reduction; health; the environment and sustainability; climate change; food security; communication for development; cultures of developing societies; and historical, cultural, and critical perspectives on the idea of modern development. They gain an understanding of development as a cultural and political-economic process that directly influences the environment. Students also study the ways in which direct and indirect policy-making by social, economic, and political institutions affect environmental issues. In this way, they develop an appreciation of the complexity of development and environmental problems in the globalized world. This concentration gives students the knowledge and skills needed for jobs or graduate education in international development and sustainability.
