Career Advancement

A recent survey showed that graduates with political science degrees have higher average salaries than graduates in all other social sciences, excluding economics. The Department of Political Science organizes career workshops for its students throughout the year. The workshops are led by former political science students who have achieved distinction in business, law, campaign operations, local government, elected office, or other fields.

The department has an active alumni mentorship program. Students can be connected to alumni to learn about careers, networking opportunities, and mentorship. The department also offers an opportunity for students to complete the last year of their collegiate career in Washington D.C.

The Pomerantz Career Center offers multiple resources to help students find internships and jobs.
