a Students must complete RELS:5400 and three graduate seminars (9 s.h.). Courses may be offered at different times, so students should work with faculty advisor and the department to determine appropriate coursework and sequence.

- b Students must complete specific requirements in the University of Iowa Graduate College after program admission. Refer to the Graduate College website and the Manual of Rules and Regulations for more information.
- c Traditional areas of concentration may include religions in the Middle East, Ancient Near East, or Mediterranean, religions in Asia, religions of Europe and the Americas, or topics related to religion, ethics, and society. Popular themes include religions' relationships to public life, gender, race, media and technology, and human health and wellbeing. Students work with a faculty advisor to determine an area of concentration that best suits their interests.
- d See General Catalog for list of approved courses.
- e Work with faculty advisor to determine appropriate graduate level elective coursework and sequence.
- f Final summative exam.
