Social Work, PhD

Financial Support

The School of Social Work provides full-time students with a competitive, multiyear financial package (full tuition, an assistantship, and a health and dental insurance allowance). It also provides scholarships, awards, travel awards, and dissertation awards.

In addition to funding provided by the School of Social Work, applicants may be eligible for financial awards through the Graduate College (e.g. research fellowships), other departments at the University of Iowa, and organizations outside the university. The director of the PhD program works with students to identify sources of funding.
